AIRBORNE ARMY SMASHING HUN DEFENSES

Way Paved for Dismantling of War Agencies

RECONVERSION TO PEACE TIME BASIS PLANNED

FDR Calls On Budget Chief For Early Report On Post-War Needs

STARTS WHEN HUNS QUIT

Most Of Program, However, Will Be Delayed Until Victory In Pacific

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19—In a move that had the earmarks of shrewd political strategy as well as sound economy, President Roosevelt gave orders today leading the dismantling of war agencies and the reconversion of the government to a peacetime basis.

In a letter to Budget Director Harold D. Smith, the President asked him to reexamine the programs, organization, and staffing of government agencies and submit at the earliest possible date recommendations for adjusting them from "the needs of war to the ends of war to the needs of peace."

Though the letter made no reference to political issues, it was by implication a White House reminder to the attack on Republican candidate Thomas E. Dewey. In recent campaign speeches, Dewey has referred to the administration as "the most wasteful, extravagant and incompetent administration in the history of the nation."

Victories Prompt Move

The President based his action on "our success on the battle fronts all over the world." This success, he said, makes possible a downward adjustment of the "great expansion of government activities" required by total war. He told Smith that the actual liquidation of government agencies cannot begin today but "the plans should be ready." He urged: "Upon the termination of hostilities, we must proceed with equal vigor to liquidate war agencies and reconvert the government to peace. Some steps along these lines may be taken when the fighting ends in Europe. The transition from war to peace should be carried forward rapidly, but with a minimum of disorder and disruption. Only careful planning can achieve this goal."

Plans Ordered

It was clearly indicated that some functions of present war agencies have been liquidated. The President specifically directed Smith to lay plans for:

1. The liquidation of war agencies and the reassignment of such permanent or continuing functions as they possess.
2. The reduction of government personnel down to a peace footing.
3. The simplification and adaptation of government functions.

U. S. Trains Diplomatic Bloodhounds To Hunt Down Hitler and Gang

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19—The State department is engaged today in the task of training the diplomatic bloodhounds for the man hunt of Adolph Hitler and his gang.

By every device in the diplomatic manual, including threat of economic boycott, the department is putting pressure on all neutral countries which might become a haven for the fleeing Nazis.

As one official expressed it, "our purpose is to plug all the rat holes before the rats begin to run."

Specifically, the department is seeking pledges that the neutrals will refuse asylum to Hitler and his associates. The objects of this pressure are the four European neutrals, Sweden, Spain, Portugal and Switzerland, plus "Fascist" Argentina.

Neutrals Warned

Officials said quite frankly that, if necessary, this government would apply the economic squeeze against any non-complying neutral. It was pointed out that the blockade still holds, and that all neutrals are dependent on the United Nations for supplies of food and other essential materials.

Already some pledges have been received: A Swedish official has declared: "Sweden will close her borders to such 'political' refugees, or if they succeed in coming across, will send them back."

The Spanish ambassador in Washington, Jan Francisco De Cardenas, has declared: "No one has ever contemplated (Continued on Page Two)"

SOLONS CLEAR WAY FOR EARLY FALL RECESS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19—Congressional leaders saw the way cleared today for a pre-election recess beginning late this week following a "close squeak" vote on surplus property legislation which almost wrecked plans for an early exodus.

The threat to the recess came on a motion to recommit the compromise conference report setting up a three-man board for disposal of surplus war property. A roll call vote of 169 to 150 sent the motion down to defeat.

The report won house approval by a vote of 174 to 91.

House leaders looked for the senate to give their speedy assent to the recommendations of their surplus property conferees. Similarly, the upper chamber was expected to recede from its stand on the George reconversion bill.

The house voted 239-90 against government transportation for stranded war workers to their homes or new jobs and 174-156 against extending unemployment compensation to some two million federal employes.

Conferees met again today in a final effort to break their deadlock on the George bill and save it from defeat.

ROOSEVELT DRAWS FIRE

Portland Speech Tuesday Night To Deal With "Indispensable Man"

ABOARD DEWEY CAMPAIGN TRAIN, ENROUTE TO PORTLAND, ORE., Sept. 19—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey headed into Portland today for a blast at the "indispensable man" issue after charging at Seattle that the "chief blame" for wartime strikes belongs to President Roosevelt.

As the Republican presidential nominee swung south along the Pacific coast for the fourth major speech of his transcontinental campaign tour, his secretary announced that the title of tonight's nationwide broadcast from Portland will be "Is There An Indispensable Man?"

Making good his recent promise that this will be a "fighting" campaign, Gov. Dewey told an audience of 8,000 persons in the Seattle civic auditorium last night that the Roosevelt administration's labor policy has fostered "class division, hate and insecurity" and that the New Deal is "exclusively responsible" for most of the serious wartime strikes.

AFL PLANS FOR U. S. RETURN TO PEACE ECONOMY

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 19—The problems of reconversion to a peacetime economy were to be discussed today before the 60th annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Labor by Matthew Woll, second vice-president of the AFL.

Reconversion was listed as the principal problem facing the nation by AFL President William Green, the Coshocton-born former coal miner, who charged that "reactionary" forces now in control of Congress were retarding every constructive effort to prepare for peace.

Green scored the "reactionaries of both parties" for "failure to provide adequate post-war legislation," and called for higher wages to keep the nation solvent. He told the 750 delegates that the reactionaries had blocked passage of the Kilgore bill which, Green said, provided minimum $25 weekly unemployment benefits.

"If I had my way, there isn't one of them who would be re-elected today," he shouted.

The Ohio Association of Motion Picture Operators, an AFL affiliate, went on record as favoring a fourth term for President Roosevelt, although Green emphasized that the AFL as a national body would remain non-partisan, "supporting its friends and campaigning against its enemies, regardless of party affiliation."

HUN WEST WALL GENERAL WOULD ABANDON LINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—A Madrid dispatch broadcast by the Paris radio today said that "according to news from a political circle in Berlin" Nazi Field Marshal Walter Von Model, commander-in-chief of the western front had telephoned Adolf Hitler to urge "evacuation" of the Siegfried line.

Von Model was said to have asked permission to abandon the line because of the "possibility" of its being overrun by the Allied armies.

NAVY PREPARING FOR P. I. DRIVE

Base Being Carved Out Of Palau For Support Of MacArthur Thrust

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19—According to Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, American fighting men today are carving out a base in Palau so the Navy can support the anticipated campaign of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to liberate the Philippines.

The blueprint of American strategy in the Far East was outlined by the Pacific fleet chief in a speech shortwaved from Pearl Harbor to the American Legion national convention in Chicago.

Nimitz told the delegates that when Palau falls "we will have a base from which to cover and support Gen. MacArthur's Philippine campaign."

Thus Nimitz assumed a secondary role for the time being in the Pacific although he is in command of the most powerful amphibious forces in history.

It was the first official statement explaining the command line-up when American forces move into the Philippines. However, it has always been understood that MacArthur would direct the return of United States troops to the Philippines.

In discussing the significance of the latest invasion Nimitz pointed out that the landings on Palau will complete the isolation of powerful Jap bases in the Central Carolines and will virtually strangle enemy communication lines to the Dutch East Indies.

"If we succeed in this undertaking—and we do not propose to fail—we will have achieved three important objectives (Continued on Page Two)"

VETERANS TOLD HOW SONS ARE CRUSHING AXIS

CHICAGO, Sept. 19—Before veterans of the last world war as they met today in the American Legion's 26th national convention was a picture of the heroic achievements of their sons on battle fronts around the globe in the present conflict and a promise of smashing victories still to come.

Even greater triumphs in the Pacific—opening the road to the Philippines and paving the way to the destruction of Japan's "military and industrial vitals"—were foretold by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz.

Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commander of the U. S. Army Air Forces, recounted the almost incredible successes of our fighting planes and bombers in the air over Europe and forecast a steadily mounting tempo which would crush the life out of Hitler's forces.

RUSS CONFIRM SIGNING PACT WITH FINLAND

LONDON, Sept. 19—The Moscow radio confirmed today that an armistice between Finland and Russia has been signed.

An official statement from the Soviet information bureau said that negotiations with Finland had been concluded and the armistice signed.

The terms of the armistice will be announced later.

Use of Surplus Grain In Rubber, Auto Fuel Favored By Senators

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19—A senate subcommittee called today for continued production of synthetic rubber from grain alcohol and recommended that the President appoint a committee to study further the future industrial use of alcohol.

The report to the senate by Sen. Guy Gillette (D) Iowa, committee chairman, called the problem of using alcohol as motor fuel "economic rather than technical."

It raised the question of whether it might be better for America to subsidize the movement of grains in excess of food and feed requirements into industrial markets for fuel rather than use "a plow-under dole" to restrict surpluses.

The report set forth the following reasons for maintaining a large production of synthetic rubber from grain:

1. About 150 million dollars of government money is invested in grain alcohol rubber plants.
2. Millions more in public funds went into alcohol plants.
3. Under present legislation the government is obligated to buy

BUTTER SUPPLY TO STAY TIGHT

Sugar, Pork Scarcities To Be Corrected Soon, Washington Says

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19—Food rationing officials predicted today that butter supplies will remain "pretty tight" for the remainder of the year, while sugar and pork scarcities should correct themselves within the next six to eight weeks.

At the same time, it was learned that supply figures point to twenty-three million less cases of canned vegetables for civilians in the fiscal year July 1, 1944, to June 30, 1945, than in the previous 12-month period.

Officials frankly admitted that OWM Director James F. Byrnes' removal of most canned goods from rationing was based on the indications of early victory in Europe. Barring this and a drop in military requirements, a shortage will be felt by the end of the winter.

Here is the situation as analyzed by experts of the OPA and war food administration:

1. Butter—Production in first eight months of 1944 about 12 percent below same period last year and seasonal low point now approaching. Lack of storage space prevented saving some of last Spring's big supply for winter.

2. Sugar—Unusually heavy volume of home-canning (bumper fruit crop) plus manpower difficulties at refineries responsible for current scarcity; not lack of supply. Canning season about over and domestic beet supply comes in next month.

3. Pork—As with butter, nation slaughtered hogs in great numbers and ate lots of pork last Spring. Supply now short until new "run" starts in November. Pork so scarce the Army has invoked "set aside" orders for first time.

Some trade circles believe that the civilian population may get only about eighty-five million pounds of butter this month, compared to a monthly peak of 112 million pounds not long ago. OPA officials are undecided on whether to (Continued on Page Two)

TEA AND COFFEE NOW PLENTIFUL FOR CANADIANS

OTTAWA, ONT., Sept. 19—Canadians for the first time since May of 1942 could buy all the tea and coffee they wanted to today—but the extent to which they could sweeten table beverages was still restricted by "tight" sugar supplies.

Rationing of tea and coffee, which limited individuals to two ounces of tea or eight ounces of coffee a week, ended at 12:01 a. m. no changes in the sugar ration of eight ounces a week is expected before the end of the year.

Fifth Army Slugs Way Into Gothic Line—Russians Halt Nazi Attack

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 19—Battlefront dispatches today reported allied capture of Eindhoven, great electrical manufacturing city in North Brabant.

By International News Service
The First Allied Army and the British Second Army, reinforced by continued airborne landings, drove swiftly ahead today in their campaign to smash the northern end of the vaunted Siegfried line and lay northern Germany open to Allied attacks.

British Second Army forces, which joined with the huge airborne army dropped behind German lines in Holland, were already reported in possession of the vital Dutch city of Eindhoven. The report was made by a BBC correspondent in Brussels.

Fresh troops, new equipment and supplies poured into the newly-won areas of Holland as a steady stream of Allied planes ran a sky shuttle service from British bases to the battlefield. Reinforced forces on the ground consolidated newly-seized positions and drove forward against crumbling Nazi defenses.

First Moves Ahead

American First Army forces battling in the Siegfried line drove along the Luxembourg-German frontier southward from the vicinity of Aachen. Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' fighters battered through for new gains in the face of stiffening resistance.

Northwest of Maastricht First Army units punched through German positions defended by infantry, artillery, and dug-in tanks. Allied fighters and fighter-bombers, paving the way for continued airborne operations over the low countries, were revealed to have destroyed more than 70 Nazi flak boats.

Bombers Active

Allied bombers winged out across the English channel coast at dawn today, headed in all directions. The morning formations followed night heavy bomber groups which smashed at the German port of Bremerhaven, and Mosquito flights which battered Berlin in a swift, block-buster assault.

LEWIS TO STAY AS UNDISPUTED BOSS OF UMW

CINCINNATI, Sept. 19—John L. Lewis will remain undisputed boss of the United Mine Workers for at least four more years.

Delegates to the biennial convention of the UMW, unanimously and without debate, lengthened the terms of the international officers to be elected in December from two to four years, and then removed from the ballot the name of Ray Edmundson, of Springfield, Ill., who sought to oppose Lewis for the presidency.

The convention was in recess until its scale committee could complete its report. Generally the report was believed to be a statement of policy rather than definite recommendations, which will be left to officials of the UMW when they meet with coal operators next March to draft a new contract. The convention may close tomorrow.

of all the chaos of agencies—the War Labor Board.”

Emphasizing his charge that labor has been made a political pawn of the present administration, Gov. Dewey said there has been a deliberate campaign of delay for political purposes in settling labor disputes.

This policy of delay, delay and more delay, he said, “serves only the New Deal and its political ends. It puts the leaders of labor in the spot. It makes them come hat-in-hand to the White House. It makes political loyalty the test of a man getting his rights.”

“Personal Governments”

“Personal government instead of government by law, politics instead of justice, prevails in the labor field in this country and I am against that kind of administration and always will be.”

The Republican nominee singled out Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins as a special target, describing her as an “estimable lady” who, for 12 years of “New Deal bungling,” has been secretary of labor “in name only.”

“For all practical purposes,” he added, “we have neither a secretary of labor nor a department of labor today. We need a secretary of labor. We need a department of labor. Twelve years is too long to go without them. Sixteen years would be intolerable.”

Declaring that our military leadership in this war has been “superb,” Gov. Dewey pledged that a change in the national administration next January “will involve no change in the military leadership of the war.”

Probable termination of the war in Europe this year, he said, will release all our energies for all-out war in the Pacific.

End To Bickering

“This election,” he predicted, “will bring an end to the quarreling and bickering and confusion in the nation’s capital which has hampered our war effort from the beginning to the end.”

Charging that the nation, in the field of labor, is “adrift, without course, chart or even a compass,” the GOP nominee said when we move at all, it is to the “shifting winds of the caprice of one man.”

Gov. Dewey said labor is smothered under a welter of agencies on agencies, with the nation “yanked from crisis to crisis.”

When election approaches, he charged, the administration temporarily abandons its “strategy of delay” and sets the stage for a “big favor to labor before election day,” a gesture designed to convince labor that something it is entitled to is a “special gift from high in the New Deal.”

“I refuse to believe,” he added, “that workers in this country will play the role of supplicants to any throne. I refuse to believe that any man or group of men can deliver any section of our people by holding the power of government over their heads as a club. I do believe the American people, when they go into the secrecy of the voting booth, will insist on government by law and not by special favor and official extortion.”

Would Arouse Workers

The Seattle speech was designed, not to align business and agriculture against labor, but to provoke the ire of the more conservative elements among the workers against radical labor leaders and the Roosevelt administration.

Republican leaders predicted the alk will split the labor vote in such key states as California, Washington, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio, New Jersey and Massachusetts, where they have detected differences of opinion between elements of the CIO, and the AFL.

In his appeal for the labor vote, Dewey said power in several industrial states, Gov. Dewey told the workers that the Roosevelt administration has given them “insecurity” and that the handling of their problems at Washington has been marked by “delays, bungling and incompetence.”

Strike Fostered

Labor itself, he asserted, sought to avoid wartime strikes, but was aided in its efforts by administration obstacles which “fostered” strife between one labor group and another, and between labor and business and between both and government.

The Republican nominee declared that labor has been insulted by the reduction of its basic rights to the “level of political reward” and that the wage earner’s pay envelope and his hours and conditions of work have been made “a football of politics.”

Study of the Dewey speech reveals that it went far beyond exhortation of the Roosevelt administration for its handling of the labor problems it presented a definite Republican labor policy, wrinkled with “no trespassing” signs for both those who would attack labor the tool of left-wing extremists and those who would

Here's How England Hopes to Solve Her Post-War Employment Problem

By WILLIAM RUTLEDGE III
Central Press Correspondent

THE POSTWAR era in England will bring about the emergence of a New Order, in line with the projected New World program of the victorious United Nations. Britain’s peacetime plans were largely blueprinted before the empire’s actual plunge into the conflict.

If England was to go through the fire and hell of modern war, her leaders mapped out the framework of the New Order, which would justify the stupendous outlay in money, men, and materials.

Britain’s industry and manpower has been burdened just as heavily as the war directors felt that she could bear. The war itself temporarily solved such problems as unemployment, insecurity, and the wants of many people of the nation. To retain, as far as possible, these gains for the postwar era was the test before her leaders.

Regular employment, available to every willing worker, augmented by lucrative overtime remuneration, has put into the hands of virtually every Britisher a substantial nest egg. Today the thinking of the everyday Englishman is in terms of this hard-earned savings in the form of that nest egg.

During the peace the British people expect to have full employment of the countless goods and services, which they have denied themselves during the war. Their hopes for a richer life and freedom from the want of insecurity hatch from these nest eggs.

Bevin’s Job

The Labor party, under the leadership of Minister Ernest Bevin, has been a dominant factor in British politics. His ministry began the organization of the New Order while the war was being prosecuted, not waiting until the conflict had been won to begin the program. The foremost problem was that of providing the medium through which the armed forces would be fitted back into the civilian life from which they had been taken.

In the solution of this problem Bevin and his aides were particularly anxious to avoid the ghastly and inequitable errors of this process in World War I. The policy was, briefly, that of sparing no means whereby these service people would be given their jobs back, if able to resume them, and to provide them with care and assistance necessary for their rehabilitation, if not able.

The plan will be carried out through 400 Resettlement Advice Offices throughout England. These offices will be staffed by government-trained experts and it will be their responsibility to handle and clear every individual case of an individual case. The Ministry of ERNEST BEVIN, England's minister of labor, shown shaking hands with a group of bombed-out housewives, will play an important role in Great Britain's New Order at end of present world conflict.

Labor has conducted uncounted millions of interviews with the rank and file of the people to best determine how this return to civilian life can be most thoroughly and competently handled. It is also an expression of the Labor party’s program of establishing a direct personal touch with as many of the common people as will be possible.

When demobilization gets under full swing special committees, covering every firm and industry, will take up each individual case to decide whether or not the employer must take back his former employee. In cases where it is judged impractical to return the veteran to his or her job, a new job must be found, which must take into consideration promotions which he would have normally earned during the years of service.

Care of the disabled is regarded as one of the greatest obligations of the government. Regardless of disability, rehabilitation is held to be imperative. Employers will be compelled to hire their quota of men and women from the registry of disabled. Special occupations and lines of work, for which the disabled are most suited, will be entirely reserved for them. Such lines are manufacture of small precision parts, watchmaking, jewelry crafts, and similar categories of work.

Those so badly disabled that they cannot be fitted into such a program will be put to gainful employment in non-profit state-sponsored projects. Blindness, deafness, loss of limbs, and other such afflictions will not prevent any veteran from having gainful employment. The state will also assume the responsibility of training such people for these jobs.

Attention on Youth

Particular attention will be given to youth and guidance will be available for the transition from education to occupation. Under the British plan every youngster will register at employment exchanges at the age of 16 and report to these exchanges once every six months. At the first registration each one will be issued his or her adult identity card.

These local offices will counsel the boys and girls in planning for their jobs and in planning for their leisure. They will be advised and directed, their response being entirely voluntary. For their jobs they are advised as to the prospects and the steps to be taken to qualify for placement.

Their hobbies will be directed, if they wish. For instance, if a boy is interested in making model airplanes, he is told of local clubs and organizations which will help and promote this interest.

There will be no apple-selling in post-war Britain. And English youth will find all the practical guidance and counsel it wants at its command.

line defenses against desperate German opposition to capture Mount Pratone, 20 miles north-east of Florence.

Heavy fighting flared in the central and Adriatic sectors of the Italian front as Nazi units offered fanatical opposition to Allied advances.

The seizure of Mount Pratone, described officially as a “great success” climaxed a day of the most bitter fighting in the entire Italian campaign. The heights of Mount Altuzzo and Mount Celli, also within the Gothic line, fell to Fifth Army troops along with Mount Pratone.

As Soviet officials announced that the Armistice between Finland and Russia had been signed, the Russian communiqué told of heavy fighting in Latvia, where desperate German units lost heavily in men and equipment in fruitless assaults on the city of Jelgava.

In Southern Poland, near the Carpathian foothills center of Sankov, Russian forces crushed German resistance and seized more than 30 towns.

Kill 5,495 Japs

From the Pacific, U. S. fleet headquarters announced that first Marine division veterans fighting for control of the Palau islands had killed 5,495 Japs out of an estimated garrison of 8,000 on Peleliu island in four days of battle up to Sept. 17.

The communiqué said that the climax of the battle for the Palau group was approaching swiftly, with Jap defenders putting up a hopeless defense against American Marines and infantry.

On Angaur island, six miles south of Peleliu, units of the Army’s 81st infantry division overran the railroad yards after overcoming light Jap resistance. Capture of the railroad yards cut enemy defenders from their supply bases.

From the Southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that carrier-based planes making neutralization raids on Jap installations at Halmahera, nearest base to newly-invaded Morotai island, had destroyed many ground-level Jap planes, sunk 13 barges, and crippled Jap air strength near Morotai.

Two ineffective Jap night raids were made on Yank troops on Morotai. In one of the raids American ground fire downed a Jap dive-bomber.

Over the entire Southwest Pacific area, from the Celebes to the Solomons, bombers of Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney’s Far Eastern Air Forces hammered at Jap installations in continued raids designed to sap the strength of Jap garrisons.

Light naval forces joined with the bombers in harassing Jap positions on New Ireland and Bougainville.

portant purposes,” Nimitz said in describing the Palau strategy.

“First, we will have isolated the Japanese in the Caroline islands, and their once important base at Truk will be next to useless,” Nimitz added. “This was part of our purpose in taking bases in the Marshall islands, and in the capture of Saipan and the recapture of Guam.”

A second result sure to pay future dividends is the placement of American forces in an improved position from which to strangle communications between Japan proper and Japan’s conquered territories in New Guinea and the Dutch East Indies.

While speaking of tremendous American victories Nimitz warned, however, that tougher fighting must be expected and that Americans had not yet come to grips with the main bodies of the well-trained Japanese army.

“The Japanese navy was severely dealt with at Midway, in the Solomons, in the raids on Truk and Palau, and in the battle of the Philippine sea,” Nimitz said. “But it is still a threat to the success of our operations, still a worthy opponent if and when it chooses to come out and fight.”

The fleet chief also stated that “even if the war in Europe were over tomorrow, it would take some time to ship the enormous strength accumulated there to the task we face in the Pacific.”

“All our forces in all theatres have timed their blows in such precise coordination that the enemy has been set off balance continually, and can no more regain his poise in order to throw a counter punch that he is hit again from another direction,” Nimitz said. “The close coordination of the several commands in the southern, central and northwest Pacific, and in China and Burma has made possible our substantial progress. This explains why, in the words used on Tokyo radio — ‘Japan has no room for optimism.’”

Though most of this liquidation, the President said, will have to wait “until the Japs have surrendered,” he suggested that some adjustment should be made immediately on the termination of the war in Europe.

The principal agencies established for wartime activity are:

Foreign Economic Administration, National War Labor Board, Office of Civilian Defense, Office of Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, Office of Defense Transportation, Office of War Mobilization, War Manpower Commission (including selective service system), War Production Board, Smaller War Plants Corporation, War Relocation Authority, War Shipping Administration, Office of Censorship, Office of Price Administration and the Petroleum Administration for War.

DENVER.—A new publication has appeared on the western horizon. It is the “Rocky Mountain Homewrecker,” published weekly for personnel of the Armed Forces Induction Station in Denver.

The Hawkeye a railway car, was built for the state in 1913 to haul live game fish from Sabula and Lansing on the Mississippi River to inland lakes and streams. With the advent of good roads and motor trucks, the fish car was succeeded by fleets of fisheries trucks. It was retired from service in 1933.

BUTTER SUPPLY TO STAY TIGHT

boost points from 16 to 20 per pound.

Grocers are expected to augment OPA’s rationing system by limiting consumers in their purchases of butter. Little improvement in the supply situation is expected before the first of the year.

OPA spokesmen said sufficient sugar is available, but that manpower shortages have forced refineries to wholesalers and thence to retailers. The large volume of home canning drained off current refined stocks.

Fourth quarter beef allocations total one billion 723 million pounds as against one billion 796 million pounds in the present three-month period. WFA spokesmen said they had received no reports of a national scarcity of utility (unrationed) and commercial beef, but acknowledged the shortage of choice beef because of military needs.

Lamb and veal allocations have been increased for the final quarter of 1944.

strip labor of most of the rights it has won.

NLR Act Approved

Gov. Dewey said he regards the National Labor Relations Act as a good and necessary law which acknowledges the trend of our times and will continue to be the law of the land. His criticism was leveled at its administration.

He referred to the Smith-Connally act, on the other hand, as a statute which should and will expire at the end of the war with its provisions never again renewed. His warning to those who look to a Republican national administration to “turn back the clock” for labor was couched in these words: “If there be those who would turn back the course of collective bargaining they are doomed to bitter disappointment. We are not going back to anything, not to bread lines, not to leaf raking, not to settling labor disputes with gun fire and gas bombs, not to wholesale farm foreclosures, not to another New Deal depression with ten million unemployed.”

The Republican nominee warned Communists and racketeers that there is no place for them in the GOP labor program.

FINNS TURN ON GERMANS STILL INSIDE BORDERS

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 19.—Finnish troops were reported marching today against German forces still in Finland after a Finnish-Russian peace accord was signed in Moscow.

Finnish troops, in accordance with an agreement with Moscow to intern Germans remaining on Finnish soil, were reported marching against Nazi forces still in positions north of the Uleaborg line.

Stiff fighting between the Finns and their former associates in the war against Russia was said to be expected in the next few hours. Finnish forces were said to be in control of Uleaborg itself.

Kentel was reported the only harbor in Finland still in German control. The port is at the northern end of the gulf of Bothnia, not far from the Swedish frontier.

providing a hiding place in Spain for the enemies of the Allied countries.”

Pledges Sought

To implement these public declarations, the State department is seeking official government-to-government pledges.

Switzerland is believed to be a likely resort for the Nazi leaders, for the simple reason that this country borders on Germany, and escape across the border would be easy.

But State department officials pointed out that Switzerland is becoming daily more dependent on the United Nations for imports, and these imports will be cut off if asylum is granted to the Nazis.

Sweden is separated from Germany only by narrow waters, and Spain and Portugal are within easy airplane flight of the Reich, but in all these cases, the economic squeeze would be applied if the Nazis leaders were given refuge.

Washington officials are inclined to be skeptical of stories that Hitler has a specially built submarine and a long range airplane capable of taking him half way round the world. Thus they are inclined to doubt that he could reach Argentina.

Yet the same warnings are being given to the Buenos Aires government.

A REIGN OF LAW

AS the time approaches when the conquest of Germany and Japan will be complete, and those criminal nations shall be subjected to fitting penalties for the crimes they have committed, the question of how the task shall be handled becomes of vital interest. This problem, with others related to it, has doubtless been an important part of the discussions undertaken in Quebec by the British and American heads of state. It is a job for experts, and needless to say, those civilian heads have been bulwarked by plenty of expert discussion and advice. Moreover, the whole nation is deeply interested in the matter, and there is no reason why civilians who have ideas should not express them. They have been doing so on the whole, liberally and intelligently.

Most of the volunteer commentators insist, reasonably enough, that the war criminals shall be tried not in civil, but in military courts, because their crimes were committed in defiance of international rules of so-called civilized warfare. It seems more important today than ever before to resurrect those time-honored rules, and polish them off, and amend them here and there to keep up with the times, so that when it comes again to any question of international right and wrong there can be no doubt as to where the merits lie.

Thus out of the Quebec conference may come a new charter of international rights and duties, of whose validity there should be no question.

COUPON CHEATING

THE traffic in gasoline coupons is a scandal in many parts of this country. Visitors in Chicago, for instance, report that "everybody laughs at gas restrictions." Those who go through the motions of presenting or receiving gasoline coupons are well aware of the counterfeiting and the substitutions, but do nothing about it.

All this sort of thing is a shameful imposition on honest people who do obey the law. It is also a glaring defiance of the state and national governments and a promoter of lawlessness in other forms.

Dittmar's Peace Feeler ..... Jap Plans Now Improved
Seen Followed by Others ..... But Pilots Second Rate

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar's intimation that Germany will accept compromise peace terms are expected to be followed by other peace feelers as the Allied soldiers start breathing hotter down Hitler's neck.

But, like the German propagandist's left-handed request for a compromise, all Nazi peace feelers will be rejected until the Germans accept unconditional surrender.

The position of the Allies was made clear to Germany by Secretary of State Cordell Hull who said the Nazis must give in completely. He was backed up by both Democrats and Republicans in Congress on this issue.

Officials in Washington not given to rash predictions now expect Germany to collapse within the next 90 days if not sooner. They believe, however, that the German fold-up will come through decisive defeat on the battlefield—not through surrender of the country.

REMARKABLE ALLIED MILITARY PROGRESS has relieved American business leaders who have been viewing the unprecedented cost of modern war with considerable concern.

They say that the estimated cost of the war will enable a free enterprise economy to pick up and carry on—provided that taxes and expenditures of the government are placed on a sound economic and business basis, free of dilettantism, pork barrelism, novel experimentation and vote-enticing spending sprees.

This, business leaders declare, will mean that the federal budget will have to become absolutely business-like within the narrowest limits that post-war conditions will permit. A budget of from 25 to

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

PEARSON COUNSELS CHURCHILL

WASHINGTON—To the Right Honorable Winston Churchill, Prime Minister of Great Britain.

My Dear Mr. Prime Minister:

This letter is not an easy one to write. It is written by one who has long admired you as the man but for whom England might not exist. It is also written by one who, long before Dunkirk when England was battling for her very life, urged airplanes for Britain, destroyers for Britain, and American intervention to save the country from which we sprang.

This was at a time when many Americans pooh-poohed the menace of Hitler, urged that the U. S. A. pull its skirts away from the mess of Europe, and when some papers published editorials gleefully speculating on what kind of reward "Sir Drew" expected to receive from His Majesty. The only reward we who helped fight that early battle want is that our two nations live happily together and with other nations, make absolutely sure that our children shall never again fight a war of this kind.

But if that reward is denied the American people, then there will be a bitterness, a huge armament program, and a withdrawal into the shell of isolation such as the world has never seen.

And if I am any student of American opinion, some small start toward the disillusionment that followed the last war, which defeated the ideals of Woodrow Wilson, which left Europe to stew and spoil and finally to spew up Hitler, already is under way. It can be stopped. But we might as well be frank and admit that it has started. That is why I am writing this letter.

We must also be frank and admit that the imperial policies of the British Empire have contributed to this start.

EMPIRE POLICIES RESENTED

A few months ago, I would not have discussed this danger in public, but an army of 10,000,000 men does not keep a secret. And every soldier who returns from India is resentfully vocal over the failure of the British Indian army to fight, blaming it on the selfish non-Atlantic Charter policy of the Empire.

And every U. S. officer who stops at Accra on his way across the South Atlantic learns how the commander of the American air base there has to pay $25 a day rental to the British for the use of each American truck lend-leased by us to your Government.

And in the Near East, almost every U. S. soldier knows how King Ibn Saud of Arabia asked the American Government for new pipes and bathroom fixtures for his palace and was turned down because these were luxuries and a war scarcity; whereupon officials of your Government turned round and secured the bathroom fixtures for King Ibn Saud—through lend-lease.

These are small things, of course, but they are things which American soldiers and the American public remember. And they do not help our relations with Great Britain and our hopes of future peace.

Not so small is your Government's insistence on keeping King George of Greece on the throne of that country despite his previous fascist associations, despite the overwhelming opposition of the people he is supposed to rule. American's don't believe in using their armies, their war goods, and their prestige, even indirectly, to keep

25 billions is realistically anticipated. This will preclude, they say, hog-wild extravagance on WPA-ism and grants to war workers and veterans.

ALTHOUGH JAPAN HAS BEEN IMPROVING her fighting planes for the all-out aerial battle for the Philippines, China and the Japanese homeland there is no indication that she has improved the quality of her flyers.

Navy Secretary James Forrestal told newsmen recently that our naval aviators face tough going because Japan has been able to add speed, maneuverability and fire power to carrier and land-based planes.

Earlier in the war, however, Japan had both numerical superiority and speedier planes than American pilots. Despite this advantage the Japanese were outwitted and outfought everywhere by well-trained, smart American pilots.

The biggest handicap of the Japanese high command is that Nipponese youths are less mechanically-minded than American boys. United States flyers are also given better basic schooling and training when they are accepted for pilot candidates.

Most American flyers who have fought the Japs believe that Jap pilots are "brave but stupid."

GOV. THOMAS E. DEWEY'S CAMPAIGN PLANS call for a thorough lambasting of Sen. Harry S. Truman's record as a part of the Pendegast machine.

There is a general feeling in party councils that blows at Truman will come in retaliation for Democratic tactics in smearing the Republicans as "pre-war isolationists."

As soon as the cries of "isolationism" and "vested interests" become loud enough the Republicans will let go. They may do so before then.

In any case inside reports indicate the Truman ice will be broken by Dewey's running-mate, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio. At best Truman will be depicted as the "creature" of a corrupt machine. There will be no attempt to link him with the deals of the big boss from Kansas City.

THE CAUSES OF NEURITIS

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

MOST PEOPLE use the word neuritis in a very sloppy and inexact manner. Usually what they mean is neuralgia. Strictly speaking neuritis means inflammation of a peripheral nerve. The per-pheral nerves go out from the brain or spinal cord to the skin and muscles. Most of them carry two kinds of fibers—from the skin and to the muscles. In short sensory and motor. When the sensory fibers are disturbed you have numbness, pain or tingling. When the motor fibers are disturbed you have paralysis. Most people never think of neuritis as paralysis; their only conception is of pain along the distribution of a single nerve.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

A few nerves carry only one kind of fiber. Such are the nerves of the face. Nothing could illustrate the distinction better between sensory and motor disturbance than these facial nerves. When the trifacial nerve is affected you get the excruciating pain that is always named trifacial neuralgia. When the seventh facial nerve is disturbed, as it may be from cold or exposure, you get the common condition everyone has seen and which you quite instinctively name facial paralysis. Both in fact come under the heading of neuritis.

Meaning of Neuritis

My objections to the use of the word neuritis apply also to its employment by medical men. Neuritis, as I said, means inflammation, and most of the nerve troubles are degenerations. Some are due to pressure—by crutches, clothing, trusses or bony growths (cervical ribs). Some to chemical poisons—alcohol and lead, for instance. The "jake paralysis" of prohibition days which came from drinking Jamaica ginger was a typical alcoholic multiple neuritis. The most typical of the neuralgias—trifacial neuralgia, and sciatica, come in the one case through degeneration or irritation of the trifacial ganglion from arterio-sclerosis and the other through pressure on the sciatic nerve from herniated vertebral disk.

Other causes of "neuritis" are nutritional. Diabetic neuritis, which when typical of the disease is purely sensory in the neck and shoulder region or in the foot and lower leg, arises in some way we do not entirely understand from the disturbed metabolism for sugars in the course of diabetes. Another form of nutritional neuritis is caused by Vitamin B deficiency and strictly speaking is motor, although sloppy thinkers among physicians are ready to call any neuralgia Vitamin B deficiency.

Requires Different Treatments

It must be obvious if the principles laid down above are true that there is no one treatment of neuritis. People get impatient with me when they write and ask flatly—"How shall I treat my neuritis?"—and I answer—"It depends on the cause." But surely it is sensible to say that you can't treat a neuritis due to diabetes the same way you treat a neuritis due to too much alcohol.

In the case of diabetic neuritis you study and adjust the patient's ability to utilize sugar and starches, and in the case of alcoholic neuritis you firmly and gently separate the patient from the bottle. If alcoholic neuritis has supervened this is a much easier task than if the imbiber has stopped or eased off just short of complete paralysis. If the cause is removed or treated most cases of neuritis get well if you give them enough time. There are some general methods of treatment which may be applied no matter what the cause. In motor types of neuritis massage and electric treatments are advisable in order to keep the muscles from degenerating. In the neuralgias heat and cold in varying alternating degrees are comforting. And also the host of anti-neuralgic medicines. In our day aspirin has taken the field by storm, but there are others—acetanilid and phenacetin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

V. F.:—Can anything be done for a diabetic neuritis case? The patient is sugar-free.

Answer: Vitamin B (thiamine chloride) should be tried. The cases are often very stubborn.

E. G.:—What are the reasons for the feeling of falling? Can the eyes cause it? Can the thyroid gland cause it?

Answer: The feeling of falling is a form of vertigo. It is usually due to disturbance of the inner ear. Any misdirection of impulses in certain nerve centers can cause it, and these may be due to the eyes or to circulatory disturbances which in turn may come from the thyroid gland.

Mrs. A. M.: Would eating 4 or 5 pounds of raw carrots a week tend to make the skin a yellow color?

A.: Certainly, the name of the condition is carotenemia. A thin nutritionist from Quality Hill was serving in a relief kitchen and urging a 200 pound damsel from the slums to partake of more spinach and carrots. "Lady," was the reply, "you ain't no argument for them vittles."

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

THE LAUGH died in Russell's throat as he stood in the living room of his home. Dan and Anne were standing with their arms about each other. They had been dancing, but now they were kissing each other. For a second they didn't seem conscious of his entry, noisy as it had been. Then Anne drew back quickly with startled eyes. Dan turned and slowly laughed. "You half scared us to death, Russ. Come on in. We're dancing."

"So I see." Anne touched the radio to shut it off. The silence was "wif and enveloping. She touched a hand to her hair and managed a steady voice.

"How is Mrs. Reynolds?" Russell's voice was light. "She isn't well. Laura says it's just indigestion."

"I'll go at once."

Anne was instantly, almost eagerly professional. Dan turned to her, grinning.

"Don't you want to show Russ how you've taught me to dance?" She shook her head. "Mrs. Reynolds need me."

"But this is your night off, darling."

"To a nurse that doesn't matter."

"Then I'll walk along with you." She patted his arm. "You stay here. I'm running."

Both men stood staring after her. Then Dan laughed and flung himself into a chair. "She's sure a funny girl. But sweet as they come. What brought you home so soon? I didn't expect you for a long time."

Russell stood very straight. "I'm sure you didn't."

Dan laughed. "Don't sound so heroic. Let's have beer and I'll tell you something."

"I don't care to hear anything. I'm very tired and I must get up early."

"And you're mad at me, too?"

"I have no reason to be. Have your beer if you wish. But try to remember this town is full of gossip. All towns are. You must consider Miss Wilson."

"I did. I pulled the shades down. What more should I do?"

For moment Russell was about to speak, then he changed his mind and went upstairs without a word. He sat shakily and bewildered. Dan here kissing Anne. It seemed incredible. It didn't make sense. While he'd been wondering where Anne was she had been here, right in his own house—in Dan's arms.

Anne really was concerned about Mrs. Reynolds, so she made all speed to the house. She didn't trust any diagnosis of Laura's, and she knew that even indigestion with no complications could be dangerous to a woman of Mrs. Reynolds' years. When she reached the house, however, she found Laura blocking the door of the old lady's room. Laura's eyes were angry.

"So Russell did find you. Of course he knew where you were. I don't need you."

"Better let me see your mother, Laura." Anne was quite composed now.

"I told you I am caring for Mother." Laura stamped her foot. "Have you called Dr. Banning?"

"No. I don't need to. And I don't need any advice from you."

"Then I shall call him."

"How dare you do what I tell you not to?"

Mrs. Reynolds' voice cut in from the room. "Is that you, Anne? Come in, I want to talk to you."

For a moment Anne thought Laura was going to burst her back physically. She was ready for it. But Laura stepped aside. Anne went up to the bed and smiled as she deftly made her patient more comfortable.

"I'm sorry you're not feeling so fit, Mrs. Reynolds. I wouldn't have gone out had I known."

"Nonsense! Why shouldn't you go out and enjoy yourself, if you're able to? Laura gave me something and I feel lots better. Get that book and read to me a few minutes, if you will."

Laura advanced firmly. "You need rest and quiet."

"I'll get it, my dear daughter, if you let me alone. Anne is going to read."

Laura snatched up the book. "I say she isn't. I've given you a sedative and I'm going to turn the light out."

Anne, who had been taking the old lady's pulse, stood up quietly.

"Laura is quite right. You need rest. I'll read in the morning. We'll go down to the shipyard and see that new yacht they just finished."

The old lady took her hand and patted it. "You always make me feel better when you're around. I hope I didn't spoil your evening in any way."

"Of course not. Now rest quietly and you'll soon be asleep. Ring if you need me."

The two girls went out, Laura switching off the light, and closing the door. Then she went to the living room. Anne said, "Good night," and getting no answer, went slowly up to her room. Without switching on her light she sat in the darkness. It was warm, but sitting by the south window there was a soft breeze rich with the fragrance of flowers and growing things. The moon gave a cool silver glow and she held her hands in the light. The night was very still, as it so often was here, still as if the place were breathlessly waiting. Down at the end of Lovers' lane, where she had walked with Dan a few nights ago, they had heard the whippoorwills across the broad stretch of the river. Dan had held her in his arms and his voice had been a caress.

"Don't you see it wasn't just a game?" he had said. "It was real. We can't laugh love away."

A dog barked somewhere far away. She pulled her chair up to the window and sat with her hands folded quietly in her lap. Had it all been a game or was it real? She still wasn't sure. Sitting on the balcony of the hotel lobby, seeing Dwight Raynor walk in so tall, so handsome, so sure of himself, something had snapped inside her brain. Or was it her heart? She still wasn't sure. But something stronger than herself had made her catch Dan by the arm and introduce him as the man she was marrying. She had to let Dr. Raynor know he wasn't the only one who could marry. She had to make him see she wasn't tearing her heart out for him. She wanted to make it clear he had married for money but she was marrying for love. No one could even glance at Dan and think he represented money.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WEAK BID OVER DOUBLE

THERE is never any necessity of bidding at once over an opponent's informatory double of your partner's suit bid, if you have a hand ranging from fair in strength to quite strong. If the former, you can afford to pass and then bid later. If the latter, you can rebid. Only when you are weak in high cards is there a need to butt in at once, to try to interfere with the opposition. And, of course, you can afford to do that only with appreciable distribution, in the form of a fit with your partner's suit or length in another, or a combination of them.

Many kinds of bidding came on this deal in a duplicate which brought together players of two different schools of thought on the question of bidding over an intervening double. At Table 1, the North-South pair was following the practice of bidding exactly the same as if the double had not been made. North in this case reckoned that he would have passed 1-Diamond if there had been no double—though many would have preferred 1-Spade or 2-Diamonds—and so he passed just as if the double had not been made.

At Table 2, North and South were treating an immediate bid over a double as showing weakness in high cards combined with distribution.

Notice the contrast in results. At the first table, the one theory caused the side to be shut out of the bidding. East-West scoring 3-Hearts with the loss of three tricks in trumps and one in clubs. At the other table, North's bid of 1-Spade enabled his side to do the shutting out, and a nice spade game resulted, with the loss of one trick in trumps and two in diamonds.

PIN-WORMS

At Last—
A Real Treatment!

You may not realize how many of your neighbors—grown-ups as well as children—have Pin-Worms at this very moment. People don't talk about this nasty infection. Sometimes they are too embarrassed to mention the tormenting rectal itching; and up to now they have usually suffered in silence because they have not known of any effective way to deal with this dreadful pest that lives inside the human body.

Important Medical Discovery

Today, thanks to a valuable scientific discovery, a remarkable new treatment has been made possible. It is based on a special drug, known as gentian violet. This drug is the vital element in P-W, the new Pin-Worm tablets developed by Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines. P-W tablets are small and easy to take, and they act in a special, gentle way to destroy Pin-Worms.

It is very easy to "catch" this nasty infection, and the ugly creatures can cause real distress. So watch for the signs that may mean Pin-Worms: itching seat, uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, nervous fidgeting. If you suspect Pin-Worms, get a box of P-W right away and follow the simple directions carefully.

CAPITAL GRID PRACTICE OPENS WITH 27 PRESENT

COLUMBUS, Sept. 19—Coach Bill Bernlohr today welcomed 27 candidates to practice as Capital University began preparations for an Oct. 7 football date with Muskingum college after a year's lay-off from the gridiron sport.

Reporting to Bernlohr were 25 inexperienced candidates, two lettermen from Capital's 1942 team and a new assistant coach, Ted Bruckner, of Detroit, Mich., who played three years on the Capital eleven, became Bernlohr's assistant as line coach.

OPENERS SPOIL FOUR RECORDS

Grid Victory Strings Snap As Ohio High School Play Starts

COLUMBUS, Sept. 19—Ohio high school football—1944 version—roared onto the sports scene last week as a majority of the state's nearly 500 teams launched campaigns which will continue through mid-November. Approximately 100 teams, not in action Friday or Saturday, were scheduled to get their baptisms this week, while less than 50 others weren't scheduled to open warfare until early October.

Although only a few hours old, the new season already has seen the downfall of four of the 13 teams that went through the 1943 campaign unscathed. Tasting defeat for the first time in two years were Toledo Walte, Fredericktown, Hubbard of Youngstown and Norton.

But others of the state's 1943 greats went right on from where they left off last November. Massillon, for example, showered Akron West in a maze of touchdowns, super speed and almost limitless power in forging a 60-7 triumph. Fostoria, Newark, Lorain, Van Wert, Youngstown Boardman and St. Clairsville—all unbeaten last season—inaugurated the 1944 stretch drive with clear cut triumphs. Parma, undefeated but tied once in eight games last year, also opened the new season in victory, defeating Garfield Heights, 13-6.

Unquestionably the week's biggest casualty was Walte of Toledo. Last year the Walte club won 10 straight—a feat equalled only by Massillon and Perrysburg. The three teams jointly shared the 1943 mythical state championship on the strength of their impressive, unmarred records. Responsible for Walte's early downfall this season was Toledo Libbey which filled the role of David against Goliath in beating mighty Walte, 7-0.

The state's longest winning streak—Fredericktown's 21-game skinn—fell by the wayside as the Freddie's dropped a 21-0 decision to Mt. Vernon. Fredericktown opened the 1944 season minus eight of last year's starters including Fullback Ollie Cline, now at Ohio State.

The week's play was not without its oddities. Perhaps the most unusual occurrence happened in the Lima Central-Lima Shawnee game won by Central, 52-0. Just after registering a touchdown in the fourth quarter on a sensational 57-yard pass play, Central's Tackle Bob Brickman kicked off to Shawnee. One of the Indians touched the ball before it rolled into the end zone. Instead of rushing back and recovering the ball for an automatic touchback, the player allowed it to roll. Brickman rushed in and fell on his own kickoff for another Central touchdown.

Although his Tigers rode to a 60-7 victory over Akron West, Coach Elwood Kammer of Massillon had a perplexing problem facing him today. Playing before 14,761 fans in Tiger stadium, Kammer's first and second teams handled the Rubber City eleven with equal ease. His starting eleven was removed after six minutes of the second period, played only briefly in the third and not at all in the fourth but the touchdown parade went on.

Kammer now wonders which team should be recognized as his varsity. Win or lose, the worries of football appear terrific.

TOLEDO AND LOUISVILLE HOLD LEAD IN PLAYOFFS

By International News Service
Toledo and Louisville, which finished second and third, respectively, in the regular American Association championship race, were out in front today in the A. A. playoff semi-finals with three victories apiece.

Toledo apiece ahead of St. Paul, three games to two, by uncorking a seven-run attack in the eighth and ninth innings of yesterday's game to win 7-4. Louisville, in its four-out-of-seven game first round series with Milwaukee, dealt the Brewers a 4-2 stinging behind the five-hit pitching of Jim Wilson. The victory gave the Colonels a 3-2 series lead also.

Beauty and Pet Parades To Be Features of Junior Fair

COOPERATION OF SCHOOLS ASKED TO PICK QUEEN

Indications Point To 40 Percent Increase In Stock Exhibits

Part of the program for the four-day Pickaway county junior fair was announced Tuesday by the junior fair committee.

Meeting Monday night in the city building the committee, appointed by the county agricultural committee to be in charge of the fair, made plans for a beauty parade and tentative arrangements for a pet parade.

Schools will be asked to cooperate in the contest to select a fair queen: Each school will be asked to select a representative and the judges will select the queen from the school entries. On Wednesday night, Oct. 18, first day of the fair, the beauty parade is planned. The committee is making an effort to line up bands of the various county schools for this parade.

Judging of the livestock exhibits is set for Thursday. The committee has secured the armory on East Franklin street to house exhibits of the 4-H clubs, juvenile grange, home economics classes and other groups. Livestock will be exhibited in the lot at the rear of the armory.

Livestock Increase
From present indications there will be a 40 per cent increase of livestock entries over last year.

According to present plans a pet parade will be held on Friday afternoon with the 4-H sale the Friday feature.

The committee has secured Army consent to close downtown streets for rides and concessions.

Members said efforts would be made to get as many bands as possible for the event. All county schools which have bands will be invited to attend the fair. Circleville high school band and possibly a band or two from outside the county will round out the musical program.

Premium lists for the various exhibits are being prepared and will be announced in the near future.

SOMETHING NEW'S BEEN ADDED TO HELICOPTER

STILL IN THE EXPERIMENTAL STAGE, the XR-1, a dual-rotor helicopter is shown in flight at Wright Field, Dayton, O. The strange looking craft may yet see military service in a variety of uses. Design of the XR-1 is basically the same as the successful German helicopter. It weighs 4,800 pounds. The engine, a 450-horse power Pratt and Whitney, most powerful ever installed in a helicopter, is located in the middle of the fuselage. Extending from each side of the fuselage are two streamlined pylons. Single rotors rotate in opposite directions at end of the pylons. AAF photograph. (International)

CEILING PRICE FOR HOGS WILL STAY AT $14.75

Ceiling price on live hogs will remain at $14.75 per hundred-weight Chicago basis for hogs weighing 240 pounds until June 30, 1945, according to information received by Pickaway county AAA chairman, John Boggs.

The announcement came from the Office of Price Administration and War Food Administration with the approval of the Office of Economic Stabilization.

The present ceilings were scheduled to expire Sept. 30, 1944.

The assurance to farmers that there will be no reduction in ceiling price on Oct. 1 should avert any panicky selling of hogs before that date, Mr. Boggs said. Hogs are now selling at or near the ceiling price and a reduction on Oct. 1 probably would send many hogs to market before they were properly finished out. Hogs sold because of this reason would help create unnecessary market jams likely to drive prices downward.

Kings in power when the people of their nations don't want them. That is not why we entered this war. It was to defeat Hitler.

SENTIMENT OF BRITISH PEOPLE

I am sure these policies do not represent the sentiment of the British people. Having visited many times in almost every part of the Empire, from Tasmania and Hong Kong to Malta and Burma, and having worked shoulder to shoulder with many British just after the last war, I think I know them.

And I am certain they would not condone some of the penny-pinching shrewdness of your lend-lease officials in the Near East, and the blindness of your ministers, who, forgetting the broader goals ahead, stoop to petty snobbishness toward conscientious U. S. public servants such as Ambassador Phillips, who tried to do his duty to his President in regard to India.

I am sure the British people would agree that the future peace of the world is more important than Hong Kong or Ibn Saud, or even India. Probably that peace is going to require concessions—some at the expense of the Empire, some at the expense of the United States.

In this country, the people are ready to pay their share of the price.

This is a crucial moment in the tide of events when American opinion, if caught and carried forward by bold and generous international statesmanship, will go to any lengths for permanent peace.

I hope, Mr. Prime Minister, that you will forgive the frankness of this letter. It is written by one who sat in Europe after the last armistice, saw the hopes of peoples slowly shattered, thought of those who had given their lives, seemed to hear them murmur: "They promised much; now they give so little toward the goal for which we died."

That, Mr. Prime Minister, must not happen again.

Sincerely and respectfully,
Drew Pearson.
